

Come to the State Fair and Round Up The Grease Monster

There's an evil creature lurking in the pipes beneath your home. The Grease Monster.

When you pour used cooking oil, grease and fat down the drain you feed the monster and help him clog drains, overflow sewers and flood your home.

Recycle your used cooking oil instead. Pour it into a plastic container with a screw top lid and bring it to one of the recycling centers listed below.

Want free tickets to the State Fair of Texas?

Every Saturday, starting September 4th through October 16th, the first 10 people who recycles at least one liter of their used cooking oil at Elliott's

Hardware in Dallas, will each receive two tickets to the State Fair.

Dallas County Schools, one of the largest pupil transportation fleets in the U.S., will recycle waste vegetable oil into environmentally friendly biofuel to run their school busses.

Come visit our booth at the State Fair or learn more at CeasetheGrease.org or call 214-671-0411.
